DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 9-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Damrath (DE 100 63 669). Damrath illustrates in an outer inflatable body 1 and an inner inflatable body 2 with the inner and outer inflatable bodies being in contact with one another, in particular, at the front and sides of the torso sections and the chest sections, with the inner and outer inflatable bodies being air permeable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 13-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Damrath (DE 100 63 669). With respect to the limitations of the ranges of permeability, the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claimed permeability or any unexpected results arising therefrom, and that as such the ranges of permeability was arbitrary and therefore obvious. Such permeability limitation cannot be a basis for patentability, since where patentability is said to be based upon diameter or another permeability or another variable in the claim, the applicant must show that the ranges of permeability is critical. In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578, 16 USPQ2d 1934 (Fed. Cir. 1990). One having ordinary skill in the art would be able to determine through routine experimentation the ideal dimension for a particular application.

As to claim 19, With respect to the limitation of a range of pressure ratio, the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claimed pressure ratio or any unexpected results arising therefrom, and that as such the range of pressure ratio was arbitrary and therefore obvious. Such pressure ratio limitation cannot be a basis for patentability, since where patentability is said to be based upon diameter or another pressure ratio or another variable in the claim, the applicant must show that the range of pressure ratio is critical. In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578, 16 USPQ2d 1934 (Fed. Cir. 1990). One having ordinary skill in the art would be able to determine through routine experimentation the ideal dimension for a particular application.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See form PTO-892.
